The Art Center Theatre

On a wild and rain-swept late-November evening, somewhere at an empty stretch of road outside Ohio's merry Denton, blissfully-affianced, prudish, boringly-innocent young pair Brad Majors and Janet Weiss find themselves stranded on their way to visit an ex-tutor. Instead, the couple will inadvertently unearth the cross-dressing Dr. Frank-N-Furter's spooky lair of inexhaustible oddities, just in time to partake in the out-of-this-world mad scientist's proud unveiling of his latest, delightfully extravagant, most daring creation: the ultimate male and the perfect sex symbol: the well-oiled Rocky Horror. But, little by little, as the effervescent transgressive force gobbles up whole the unsuspecting visitors of the night, Brad and Janet slowly begin to embrace the potent fascinations of seduction, while an idolized Rocky roams free in the mansion. Who can interrupt man's union with the absolute pleasure?

“IT’S ABOUT KNOWING. ABOUT NAILING IT ALL TOGETHER IN A GROUP.

It’s 1980, you’ve just finished doing your first school musical, you’re 15, and the cool seniors who had the leads and have cars say “let’s get the whole cast together and go to RHPS”

You beg and plead with your parents to go and they let you because they know the seniors and they’re the geeky/artsy/smart ones, so you roll your Columbia costume up in a wad because there’s some things your parents don’t need to know, and you bike over to your friends house to pick up the carpool and change there (into pajamas with a band-aid over one very important spot) and then you go and because your older friends coached you you know a bunch of the right things to say at the right time.

And you say them along with everyone else, and it is JUST SO COOL.
You get to yell “SHOW US A TIT, COLUMBIA” really loud.

It’s every time you’ve recited the Pledge of Allegiance or sung the Gloria Patri, but turned into something yours, you and your cohort.

It’s the satisfaction of knowing how to how to clap Miss Mary Mack, really fast, totally perfect, or singing “Jingle Bells, Batman Smells” really loud with all the other kids on the bus, except with sex.

Humans of all ages like doing things together. Sweet Caroline at a Sox game, that big “DA DA DAAAA” moment.

Adult humans like sex.

(The Rocky Horror Show) puts them all together with just a Jump to the Left, black lipstick, and toilet paper.”
